Course Breakdown

We understand that individuals are at different stages in their lives and have different needs for their growth. With the mission of refueling your body, mind, and spirit personally and professionally, we categorize courses and seminars into five separate skills. These categories focus on the whole person concept and address different skills based on a person's interests and goals.

Members participating in Fairchild University courses and seminars can earn their Green, Blue, and Black Belt Degrees based on the number of credit hours they take.

See the course list on the website for a comprehensive listing of available seminars that can help you. Some classes, mostly in the recreational skills categories, have costs associated with them, so be sure to read the course descriptions thoroughly.

If you have any questions, contact the Career Assistance Advisor at 509-247-8020, or the Community Support Coordinator at 509-247-5273.
